Rev. Father Jenne Addresses The Graduates; Urges Further Study

Fifteen girls and four boys were graduated last night from St. Ann's Parochial School, at the third annual commencement exercises and entertainment held in the school auditorium.

Rev. Father Isidore Jenne made a brief speech in Italian, urging the parents of the graduates to send them to higher institutions of learning, and encouraging the students already in school to stay until the time comes when they will be able to receive their diplomas. He then presented certificates for the following who satisfactorily completed their grammar course at St. Ann's School:

Angelina Ferrara, Millie Carnevale, Pasqualina Donofrio, Angelo LaPolla, Elizabeth Capriotti, Mary Nicol, Mary Field, Andrew Monachello, Joseph Stallone, Adeline Rocco, Joseph Genco, Anna Tulio, Anna Clotti, Anna Garamella, John Scannella, Catherine Valori, Mabel Cayona, Angelina Bar-racco, Catherine Marina.

Anthony LaPolla, in behalf of the boys, and Anna Garamella in behalf of the girls of the graduating class, gave a short address, thanking the Sisters of Holy Trinity and Father Jenne for their patience and help in enabling the students to complete the course.

Boquets of flowers bedecked the auditorium stage and were given to the female graduates as they came forth to receive their diplomas. The girls were attired in white dresses and the boys in dark suits.

Before appearing in their graduating costumes, the departing class presented a play entitled "The Maid of Orleans." This depicted the entire life of Joan D' Arc from her childhood days until the day she was burned at the stake and departed into life beyond. The cast consisted of:

The Maid of Orleans, Elizabeth Capriotti; King of France, Pasqualina Donofrio; the count, Angelina Ferrara; Lady of Lorraine, Anna Clotti; Lady Claire, Anna Tulio.

The entertainment opened with a chorus of first grade girls each having a different colored dress representing the rainbow. There were fifty in this chorus.

"My Uncle's Farm," the second bit of playwork, was given by the boys of the first and second grades.

About thirty girls of the second grade presented "The Stars." Each child's skirt and head band was ordered with stars and dancing and singing featured the number.

The third and fourth grade boys made up the "Tin Whistle Band," and each with a tin horn played interesting numbers. "Lombardi all prima Crociata" (The First Lombardian Cross), was given by the girls of the sixth and seventh grades. The girls in this play marched about the flag of the Lombardy and then sang numbers in Italian.

Dressed in various colored costumes and singing songs of the fairytale, the girls of the fifth grade presented the "Fairy Belles."

"God's Garden" was the title of the play exhibited by the girls of the third and fourth grades. Girls representing the seasons of the year as well as the wind, rain, sun, etc., were shown receiving their orders.

An Indian club drill and marching was the act put on by the boys of the fifth grade. This ended with the boys saluting the American flag and singing the "Star Spangled Banner."

During intermission, James Bracco, of Franklin street, gave an exhibition of tap dancing and Adeline Morino, of Pond street, played two cornet solos.

Frances Tamburello was the piano accompanist during the singing of the chorus.

St. Ann's auditorium was packed to capacity and many were standing to witness this annual affair by the students of St. Ann's Parochial school.

Entertains in Honor of Husband's Birthday

Mrs. Russell A. Johnson, entertained at cards last evening at her home, 219 Madison street, in honor of the birthday anniversary of her husband. The affair was arranged as a complete surprise to Mr. Johnson.

Three tables of cards were formed, "500" and Pinochle being played, and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

At a late hour a delightful repast was served.

The guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hetherington, Mr. and Mrs. C. Melvin Johnson and children, Olive and Catherine, Miss Hattie Carty, Mrs. Olive Force, Mr. John Johnson, Mrs. Elizabeth Tolen, Mr. and Mrs. George VanZant and Mr. and Mrs. John H. Myers.

DOYLESTOWN SENIORS GIVE SCHOOL $500 CHECK

Presentation is Made Toward Seating Fund for The Auditorium

PRIZES ARE AWARDED

DOYLESTOWN, June 20.—Awarding of the prizes was one of the features at the thirty-eighth annual commencement exercises of Doylestown High School held in the school auditorium last night with over 500 people in attendance.

Dr. Carmon Ross, superintendent of the local school, announced a number of the awards that were made to members of the graduating class and to other students of the school.

The senior class gift was a check for $500 presented to the school by Thomas Beans, president of the senior class, in behalf of the 1930 class, to be applied to the "seating fund" to purchase new seats for the school auditorium. This is the third year the award has been made.

The gift to the school made by the Harlequin Players was two fine portraits of Shakespearean characters. This presentation was made by Pauline Waddington, president of the Players.

The American Legion Ladies' Auxiliary gold medal awarded to the eighth grade girl who represents highest character, scholarship, companionship, responsibility and service, was won by Melba Lukens.

The D. A. R. Prize in American History, five dollars in gold, to the seventh grade pupil who excelled in the study of American history, was awarded to William Power.

The Harlequin Players' prizes of $5 each were awarded as follows: Best actor, Donald Smith; greatest number of honors, Pauline Waddington.

Prizes offered by the Doylestown Christian Council in Bible Literature, "Influence of Christianity on Education," were awarded as follows: first, $15, Edna Wagner; second, $10, Helen McNealy; third, $5, Lucy Beer.

The American Legion Gold Medal given by the A. R. Atkinson, Jr., Post, No. 210, of Doylestown, to the high school, awarded on the basis of clean living, courage in performing daily tasks, showing the square deal towards his fellows, honesty and honor, helpfulness and service, was won by Thomas L. Beans, president of the graduating class.

The Dr. George H. Lorah Prizes for Excellence in English, each $5 in gold, were awarded as follows: Best speller, Robert Pearlman; freshman-sophomore declamation, Millard Robinson; Junior - senior declamation, Florence Fleming; extemporaneous speaking, Robert Walter; best editorial accepted for the commencement "Torch," Alice Leatherman; best poem accepted for commencement "Torch," Josephine Kessler; general excellence in first-year English, Mildred Reeve; general excellence in second-year English, Lenore Boyer; general excellence in third-year English, Marguerite Ferry; general excellence in fourth-year English, Lucy Beer.

The Doylestown Rotary Club athletic prize, a gold watch donated by Rotarian Lenox Chew to the boy or girl who is outstanding in sportsmanship, scholarship, character, school spirit and athletic ability as shown competitively, was won by Thomas L. Beans, president of the senior class.

The Livezey Award in cash to the outstanding senior for excellence in studies, character, leadership, influence on student body, student activities, was awarded to Donald Smith.

The Class of 1925 scholarship prize for the highest average in scholarship for four years was awarded to Bertha Labs.

CAROL WANTS TO RUN ROUMANIA LIKE AN AMERICAN RUNS HIS BUSINESS--SAYS HE PLANS TO PUT KINGSHIP ON PURELY BUSINESS BASIS

New Ruler Has A Horror of Red Tape — Does Not Have The Least Intention of Americanizing His Country — Carnegie "Tech" Man on King's Efficiency Staff

By Frederick K. Abbott
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
(Copyright 1930 by I. N. S.)

BUCHARST, June 20.—King Carol II, of Roumania, Europe's newest and most colorful monarch, wants to run his country the way an American industrial magnate runs his business.

In an exclusive interview with International News Service today, the new King outlined in detail his aims and ideals. Sitting behind his huge desk, Carol revealed his desire is to put kingship and politics on a "purely business basis."

It was the first interview Carol had granted to an individual correspondent since his dramatic flight from exile in France and seizure of the throne from his son, Crown Prince Michael.

King Carol received this correspondent in a tiny room on the second floor of the Royal Palace. A gigantic walnut desk took up almost all the available floor space, and the four walls were lined with filled bookshelves that reached from floor to ceiling.

The massive desk was littered with documents, papers and book- of all descriptions. Carol, looking older and more serious than in his exile days, at his "Love Chateau" at Belleme, near Paris, was dressed in a beautiful tailored white duck military uniform.

Gold epaulets and buttons furnished the only contrast to the flat white of his uniform. He greeted this correspondent cordially.

There was no pompous "Majesty" in his manner, and as he warmed to the conversation he leaned forward in his chair and gesticulated with his hands.

The King's first words were almost apologetic.

"This," he said, signifying the tiny room with a sweep of his arm, "is my office."

"My conception of a King's job," he declared when the simple ceremony of introduction was finished, "is to sit down at a table with politicians and thrash out difficulties, to cut red tape, and act as arbitrator in clearing up a situation."

"That is the best way a King can aid his country."

"I have a horror of red tape, you in America have made 'efficiency' your watch word. I want the same word to be the slogan of Roumania."

Carol laid his hand on a pile of papers and books on his desk.

"Since my return," he continued, "I have spent more than fifteen hours daily at this desk trying to find out how best to economize in time, money and effort."

"That is the way the American businessman works, and my ambition is to run Roumania on a business principle."

"We all look toward America's business efficiency, and although I must say I haven't the least intention of 'Americanizing' my country, I am convinced that many of your customs, methods and habits would greatly benefit Roumania."

King Carol said he wanted as many Roumanians as possible to go to America for education and broadening.

"I visited the United States in 1921," the monarch recalled, "and at the time investigated several colleges and universities. I found them excellent."

"Already I have a Carnegie Tech man on my efficiency staff, as well as several agricultural engineers from American Universities."

At the conclusion of the interview, King Carol was asked whether it might be hoped that he soon would visit America.

The King rose from his chair and offered his hand.

"Nothing would give me more pleasure," he said, "I promise to find the first available opportunity to do so."

"But," he concluded, "As you say in America: 'I've got a big job on my hands right now!'"

OVER 300 ATTEND GRADUATES' BANQUET

Jolly Time Had by Mothers, Fathers and Guests at High School Affair

A PLEASING PROGRAM

Over 300 attended the banquet given by the Mothers and Fathers' associations of the Public Schools to the graduating classes of February and June last night. It was held in the high school auditorium and was one of great joviality. Both the Exchange and Rotary clubs attended in a body and were accompanied by their wives and friends.

The tables which filled the large room were decked with bouquets of cut flowers and the room was decorated with the national colors.

Under the direction of Percy G. Ford the two service clubs and the 1800 graduates marched separately into the room singing. Each group was escorted to the front of the auditorium where a number was sung and they were then escorted to their respective places by Mr. Ford.

The banquet lacked all of the formality of such affairs and those who attended had a most enjoyable time. Songs were sung, yells were given, balloons floated into the air and the merry shouts of laughter rang through out the entire evening.

At the conclusion of the banquet the members of the two service clubs cleared the tables and Mrs. John H. Hardy, president of the Mothers Association announced the program.

There were xylophone solos by Anthony Cashmere, accompanied by Miss Ida Phipps, Frank Della, guitar and Victor Sharrack, accordion, giving selections. Joseph Bracco, toe dancing. A mixed quartette composed of Mrs. Frank Parr, Mrs. John Hutton, Albert G. Watson and Andrew MacArthur, sang several numbers.

There were brief remarks by Mrs. Hardy, Stanford K. Runyon, president of Fathers Association, and the presidents of the two classes.

Warren P. Snyder, high school principal, presented 25th footballs to Samuel Dries and William Traubitz. Mr. Snyder in the course of his remarks stated that of the 71 major athletic events staged by high school students during the year that 43 of them had resulted in victories, 18 losses and four tie events.

Dancing was indulged in for the remainder of the evening.

LATE NEWS

PHILADELPHIA, June 20.—A squad of seven New York and Philadelphia detectives descended on a rooming house on 10th, near Green streets, at 7 a. m., today, and arrested Joseph Clarke, 34-year old escaped inmate of the Creedmore State Hospital for insane, Creedmore, L. L., on suspicion of being the maniac murderer, who claimed two lives in Queens Borough, N. Y., and marked fourteen other persons for death.

The suspect, who does not answer the description of the phantom slayer, but who has been flooding the mails with all sorts of letters, was apprehended after a struggle in which all seven sleuths had to exert their maximum strength to subdue the chunky and powerful madman.

"You won't take me back! you won't take me back!" he screamed during the battle in which considerable furniture was overturned and damaged.

K. of C. Home is Scene of Large Card Party

The card party given by the Knights of Columbus and held in the K. of C. Home on Radcliffe street, Wednesday evening, was a splendid success, both socially and financially. The games pinochle and "500" were played and there were twenty tables of card players arranged. The prizes were beautiful and useful, there being thirty in number and the first prize was a set of discs. Those who received high scores in the game of "500" were:

Mrs. F. Nealis, 4369; Miss Catharine M. Dugan, 4200; Mrs. Neal Mulligan, 4190; Mrs. N. J. McGinley, 4170; Mrs. Joseph Wollard, 3940; Mrs. David Fenton, 3620; N. J. McGinley, 3520; Miss Frances McFadden, 3370; Mrs. P. McGinley, 3310; E. H. Middleton, 3290; Miss Mary A. McFadden, 3200; Miss Catherine Strong, 3160.

In pinochle the highest scores were received by the following people: Carl F. Winch, 767; Mrs. B. F. McGee, 764; F. J. Craven, 761; M. Darrah, 758; William A. Lynn, 750; Mrs. Anna Gosline, 745; Mrs. Jane McNulty, 735; M. J. Keating, 711; James Tunis, 701; Mrs. Firman Pope, 690; Mrs. Anna Barnfield, 682; M. Keating, 674; C. E. Finney, 670.

The committee in charge of this party was composed of Richard J. Blanche, chairman, Frank J. Keating, C. Edgar Finney, Arthur Angelaccio and John Mulligan.

"HIBOES" STILL IN RUN FOR FIRST-HALF GAMES

Hits Prove Scarce in Tilt Between A. O. H. and Independents

FINAL SCORE IS 3 TO 1

Schedule for Tonight
Federals versus St. Ann's

Result of Last Night
A. O. H. 3 INDEPENDENTS 1

(By T. M. Juno)

Hits were scarce last night on St. Ann's field as the Hibosians kept in the running for the first half championship by defeating the Independents, 3-1.

In all only nine hits were made during the game. Five of these were credited to the losers and four to the winners. Only one was an extra base blow, that being a double by Leyden in the fifth inning.

Mangan and Romeo both hurled effectively and were well supported by their mates. Several times when these twirlers were in tight pinches the outfielders came to the rescue and made catches to cut off runs at the plate.

The "Hiboes" were recorded two double plays. One came in the third inning and the other in the fifth.

Three runs in the fifth inning were the result of Sullivan's single over second base to centerfield; Thompson's sacrifice; a fielder's choice to McClafferty; a pass to Brady; Connor's single and a double by Leyden. On Leyden's double, Connors was nipped at the plate by a beautiful relay, B. Avella to L. Hibbs to Cochrane.

The Independents' only tally came as the result of Thompson's error on Avella's grounder and Lasprella's safe single to right field.

Although the Indies had the bases

Hulmeville Pastor Guest At Surprise Reception

HULMEVILLE, June 20.—Appreciation over the return of the Rev. W. Vernon Middleton, as pastor of the Nesheim M. E. Church for another year, was manifest last evening when over 50 gathered for the week's service. The reception, a surprise to the pastor, was a belated one, owing to the fact Rev. Middleton has been attending sessions at Drew Seminary, and has not been located in the borough during the week.

At the close of the prayer service the following program was presented: Vocal number by a trio consisting of Edwin Webster, Kimball Faust and Sidney Buckman; reading, Mrs. Fritz-muth; vocal solo, "A Perfect Day," Mrs. Samuel K. Faust; duet, "Whispering Hope," Misses Grace H. Illick and Adeline E. Reetz; readings, "When the Pastor Comes to Tea," and "Dirty Hands," Miss Elma E. Haefner; reading, "My First Recital," Mrs. Fritz-muth; quartet selections, Mrs. Faust, Misses Harriet Cox, Grace H. Illick and Adeline E. Reetz. Miss Clara L. Illick presided at the piano.

Representatives of the various church organizations expressed appreciation over the minister's return in brief remarks. Rev. Middleton also addressed the group, speaking of his pleasure in the work here, and hoping for greater work in the church in the future.

The affair was sponsored by the Ladies' Aid Society.

Refreshments of ice cream and home made cake were served in the social room.

Mrs. Harvey Houser and daughter Nolen, of Pond street, spent Saturday in Burlington, visiting a friend.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Whitley and children, Bertha and Maurice of Tacony, and Mrs. William McColl and children Sara, Dorothy, William, James and Herbert of New Buckley street, spent Sunday at Seaside, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Capella, of Jefferson avenue, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Sylvester of Holmesburg.

VICTIM CLAIMED HE WAS THE LONG SOUGHT CHAS. ROSS

Frequently Exhibited Head Scars and Moles to Prove His Identity

BELIEVED TO BE SUICIDE

Body Found With Legs and One Arm Severed at Lawndale

CROYDON, June 20.—A man who lived the life of a recluse here and who time after time claimed that he was the original Charlie Ross, kidnapped by a band of gypsies, met death last night beneath the wheels of a Philadelphia and Reading Railway train at Lawndale, Whitaker avenue, and Boulevard, Philadelphia.

The victim:

Robert T. Clark, 55, Wyoming avenue.

Clark or Ross lived the life of a recluse in a squalid shack back in the bushes along Wyoming avenue. His hut was concealed from the roadway by a dense growth of rose bushes and trees. One has to stoop in order to pass beneath an arbor above the gateway.

It has not been definitely established yet whether Clark accidentally met death or committed suicide. Many of those with whom the eccentric man was acquainted claim that he deliberately ended his life by lying upon the railroad tracks and permitting the train to pass over his body.

Clark, who frequently visited Bristol, claimed that he was the original Charlie Ross, and to prove his contention exhibited scars upon his head, and moles upon his body, which he said were marks of identification. Clark, or Ross, told those with whom he seldom conversed that he was positive that he was Ross because a Minnesota judge had written him giving him a minute description of Ross which fitted that of Clark.

The man's body was found alongside of the tracks of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad last night. Both legs and an arm had been severed. A receipt for box rent paid at the Bristol post office was in his pocket, and a check up of this through Chief of Police Jones and Postmaster Clarence G. Young, identified the victim.

Clark had little to do with his neighbors and would not permit any of them to enter his place of abode. He was never seen outside the dwelling unless he carried a pistol. On numerous occasions he walked around the yard, clothed only in his undergarments, but with his pistol in hand. In front of the premises is a sign crudely lettered: "This place is all wired with dynamite. Be careful."

Clark had on numerous occasions fired the pistol at those who attempted to enter his premises. Several months ago Anthony Russo, Bucks County health officer, attempted to enter the place to investigate a complaint, but was driven back by Clark and his gun which was discharged.

Clark was last seen about Croydon Sunday night. Early Monday morning smoke was noticed creeping through the crevices of the dilapidated place, and neighbors summoned firemen. In one of the two rooms which Clark occupied and which adjoined a third room, used as a chicken coop, a lighted oil stove, had been placed upon a bed. The bedding was burned entirely away, and the walls of the room scorched. Bucks County Fire Marshal William L. Stackhouse, of Hulmeville, was notified and the State Police at Morrisville were given a warrant charging Clark with arson. Since Monday the State Police have been on the lookout for the return of Clark, with the expectation of placing him under arrest.

Justice of the Peace James Laughlin is today making a search of the premises in an effort to locate relatives of the dead man. The attack which Clark occupied is piled high with every conceivable sort of litter and debris. There are hundreds of newspaper clippings and scraps of paper on which were scribbled meaningless notes. Several letters were found which had been addressed by Clark to the Pennsylvania Highway Department giving the names of Croydon residents and the license numbers of their automobiles.

Clark built his shack a section at a time, and the second floor is supported entirely by the chassis of old automobiles, which are used as the up-rights.

Clark on his trips to Bristol always carried a little basket on his arm. He did his own cooking on a small oil stove, and judging from the correspondence found on the premises he was not an ignorant man, all of his letters being intelligently phrased.

CHANGES

Fatal explosions in powder mills and mines, window washers falling to their death, policemen and firemen killed on duty, parachute jumpers who jump once too often, moving picture stunt men victimized by their own daring, explorers who never come back. All these remind us that men are still willing to work at the most hazardous occupations, for a livelihood.

An average of eight window washers a year fall to death from New York's skyscrapers. Yet there appears to be no scarcity of window washers. Although men may be killed at the trade, others are ready to pick up their buckets and brushes. For a small wage they stand on a precarious perch high above the street and gamble with the law of gravity. Painters working under the very eaves of towering buildings, riveters balancing on steel beams at dizzy heights, laborers working under shelving sand pits, or "sand hogs" burrowing through the earth—all making a living in the very jaws of death.

Not all of them do these things for money alone. There are the "human flies", movie stunt men, high divers and parachute jumpers to whom the thrill from thrilling others is the primary consideration. How shall this strange zest for taking chances, which is so much a part of some temperaments, be explained?

BUSINESS PULMOTERS

To the women of the United States the nation may yet have to look for a revival of the good old-fashioned prosperity of 1928. It is only necessary for them to extend to other fields the methods which they have employed so beneficially in the case of the dress industry. That trade, doing a business of $800,000,000 a year, has been lifted from depression to exceptional activity by the new silhouette.

What the swift and decisive replacement of the short skirt by the long skirt has accomplished can be duplicated by a reversal in the matter of diet. If women will agree to eat a little more bread than they have been doing they will help to life the present world-wide agricultural depression. If they will add just a bit to their consumption of sugar and coffee they will bring cheer to half the tropics.

Radical changes in automobile design that would make all former models as antiquated as a congressman's ideas would solve the problems of the automobile industry. Think what would be accomplished for masculinity would adopt the bizarre costumes introduced at the tailors' conventions, but which never appear in public.

A slim silhouette maketh a lean payroll and a new model car revolutionary in design mortgageth the home, but the boyish figure and unchanging motor designs goeth before a fall in sales.

Is that breathless style of Floyd Gibbons natural, or is the broad-casting studio at the bottom of an express elevator?

The only foreign visitor that comes to America full of gas and doesn't spout it all over America is the Graf Zeppelin.

Doylestown Seniors Give School $500 Check

The Martha H. James Lora Awards for deeds of kindness during 1929-30 were awarded as follows:

Harriet M. Gross, grade 2-A, for voluntarily assisting one of her sick classmates unable to attend school, by taking home to him daily assignments and bringing the completed work back to school. In this way her classmate made his promotion.

Jane Campbell, grade 2-A, by helping an old lady with a heavy shopping bag by carrying it home after school.

Paul Beck, opportunity class, for regularly doing all kinds of errands for a neighbor woman and family. He frequently cleaned ice from the side walks during the winter and volunteered to carry out ashes and cared for a nervous child during the mother's absence. He is the essence of politeness and respect and is making more of his opportunities than 90 per cent of the other boys in school.

Award of $5 divided between Alma Miller and Betty Frome, grade 5-B for rescuing one morning on the way to school a stray little rabbit in order that it might not be killed by dogs.

Award of $5 divided between Doris Penrose and Helen Prawdijk, grade 5-B, for aiding in the lunch room a little girl with an injured arm.

Emily Thompson, grade 7, for showing kindness to an old lady who was having difficulty in getting up to the pavement. After assisting her, Emily returned to her group but not before she was sure that the old lady was safely on her way.

Walter Bean, grade 8, for voluntarily sacrificing his chance of being chosen the school's representative in the county spelling contest because he thought it unfair to be chosen because he spelled correctly a word his competitor had just misspelled. In the next trial, Walter lost the honor of being chosen.

Stewart Mann, high school, for his faithfulness in auditorium duty and in the doing of many acts of kindness which have required a sacrifice of time.

Frank Brashears, senior class, for giving up his holiday on Good Friday in order to help complete the scenery for the senior class play, and also because of the fine spirit shown in doing work that was necessary, but not conspicuous, thus sacrificing his own opportunity of seeing the class play.

William Porter, high school, for his uniform courtesy, extreme helpfulness in countless ways, in looking after the lighting, electrical work of the stage, and the general arrangements for the comfort of his fellow-students in high school. To his generous use of his leisure time for the welfare of others should be added the very essence of politeness and good manners, the soul of kindness.

Lions Have Fear of New-Born Hound Dogs

THREE RIVERS, Cal., June 20—Word from the high Sierra is to effect that mountain lions are beating back into the highest mountains, frightened, while cowmen of these hills are rejoicing. Ord Loverin's famous lion hunting dog, one of the state's finest, has just given birth to 11 lion-hunting bred pups.

Director's Daughter Becomes Film Extra

HOLLYWOOD, June 20—Although the name of DeMille usually is important in motion picture circles, still it isn't going to mean a thing on the list of extra girls who every day seek employment in the movies—in this spite of the fact that Katherine DeMille, 19 year old daughter of Cecil B. DeMille, motion picture director is among them.

Seeking a real trial in pictures without the aid of her father. Miss DeMille today was enrolled as an extra and asks a chance to show what she can do on her own merits.

To Educate All Mexican Soldiers

MEXICO CITY, June 20—All members of the Mexican army will be able to read and write within another year, according to General Joaquin Amaro, secretary of war.

Due to the efforts of Gen. Amaro, to wipe illiteracy in the army, it is 900 soldiers in the Mexican army are now able to read and write. Special classes are conducted daily to teach reading and writing.

and power and light systems for the farm. Agronomists are explaining the results of 49 years of experimentation with fertilizers and lime, variety tests of alfalfa, forage crops and grasses. What weeds cause livestock illnesses, the principles of heredity and breeding and the control of plant diseases are being offered by the botanists and plant pathologists. Entomologists are lecturing on the control of flies and the European corn borer.

Foresters are demonstrating tree planting, improvement cutting, saw filing, timber estimating, and the uses of lumber about the farm. Training and pruning of tree and small fruits feature the fruit program, with storage, pollination, fertilization and control of rodents, insects, and diseases other important subjects.

Ornamental horticulture is being demonstrated in landscaping of model homes and gardens. Vegetable gardening is bringing the attention of visitors to the results obtained in experiments with mulches, new varieties, greenhouses and fertilizers.

Farm women are being offered a special program of music, talks about birds and flowers, demonstrations of dairy products in the diet and an afternoon tea for the exchange of practical experiences in their part of the farm life.

PHILADELPHIA, June 20—Penn-sylvia will be represented by five men at the annual Intercollegiate Golf Championships which will start at the Oakmont Club, Pittsburgh, June 23, according to an announcement made by H. Jamison Swarts, assistant graduate manager of athletics at the University of Pennsylvania.

Albert Brodbeck, captain of the team, J. S. Lewis, of Erie, will compose the team.

Brodbeck won seven of the nine dual championships, W. C. McKintee, of Doylestown, J. G. Gross, of New York City; Jack Merriman, Lansdowne and

DOYLESTOWN WILL LOSE ITS ATHLETES THIS YEAR

DOYLESTOWN, June 17—Twelve outstanding athletes will be lost through graduation this year at Doylestown High School.

Among the leaders are to be found "Ally" Rufe, the only four-letter man to graduate in the last three years, and his brother, "Gus" Rufe, who participated in three sports and graduates this year as an honor student in scholastic work for having an average of 90 or better during the four years in high school.

"Tom" Beans, another familiar name to every follower of Doylestown High School sports, who many consider the most capable athlete in several years, will graduate this year. Beans played four sports, including football and basketball, the major sports, and baseball and track. Beans was probably the greatest "fighter" in the past five years. He was aggressive in every sport in which he participated and was an outstanding gentleman with it all.

Football is hard hit through graduation. Practically the entire line of Coach Bill Wolfe's team this year will graduate Thursday night. Eleven first-string football men all told, will graduate, so that next year's team will be built up from the ground. Not since football was taken on as a sport at Doylestown High have the ranks been so depleted as they will be after graduation. In addition to the first-string men graduating, the squad will suffer somewhat through several other players discontinuing school next year.

In basketball, Doylestown's leading sport, the absence of the Rufe brothers and "Tom" Beans is a big loss. E. Good, another regular, increases the list to four regulars lost to the cage game. R. Nash, another basketball player graduated this year.

The complete list of football players did not meet with the approval of ers lost through graduation includes A. Rufe, "Tom" Beans, G. Rufe, D. Douglass, J. Elfman, E. Good, W. Haldeaman, Rubinkam, J. Siegler, E. Stiner and George Wetherill.

Baseball players graduating include A. Rufe, T. Beans, G. Rufe, E. Good, H. Lake, Rubinkam and J. Siegler. Basketball team members lost through graduation, include A. Rufe, T. Beans, G. Rufe, E. Good and R. Nash.

In track, A. Rufe, T. Beans, J. Elfman and G. Wetherill, are regulars, leaving this year.

Coach Wolfe realizes that he will have a difficult task to build up the athletic standing of Doylestown High next year to the level it has occupied in former years. Unfortunately the first-class material necessary for consistent-winning teams is not present just now and it may take several years before first-class football and basketball teams can be developed.

There is some talk at Doylestown High, and Coach Wolfe favors the move, to take on tennis as one of the school sports. In place of baseball there is plenty of tennis material and with a bit of coaching, Doylestown will have no trouble in scheduling matches with the well known schools of the suburban districts.

Track too, will have to be emphasized next year if any kind of material is to be developed at all. This year the track activities were confined to several meets and the school did not participate in the big county meet. It is quite likely that Doylestown will enter the county meet next year in addition to several inter-school meets. It depends entirely on what kind of material reports for early training.

Doylestown High has again entered the Eastern Pennsylvania Interscholastic Basketball League with Hazleton, Allentown, Easton, Coatesville, Pottsville and Bethlehem. There was some talk about dropping out of the league to join a weaker league, a branch of the Suburban League. The offer made by the Suburban League did not meet with the approval of Doylestown for it would place the team in a league that would make it one-sided with Doylestown having an edge on all other teams.

"I would rather lose a number of games than enter a weak league with teams that never draw crowds or create friendly competition," Coach Wolfe said yesterday. "I believe the sportsmanship of the Eastern League is outstanding and that the school and the student body as a whole, as well as many town supporters favor remaining in that league for the present."

Atlantic Advertising Makes Fine Appearance

Great as has been the recent years' progress in putting reading and pictorial interest into newspaper advertisements, few campaigns have attained the outstanding appearance that has thus far marked the 1929 gasoline advertising of The Atlantic Refining Company.

Developed in vigorous technique along modernistic poster lines, with short, swift, quickly-read messages, Atlantic advertisements have been bringing out the facts about Atlantic Gasoline in a manner that carries conviction even to the casual reader.

"And," says H. B. Stone, District Sales Manager for the Atlantic Company, "Atlantic Gasoline is just as unusual and modern as the advertising which proclaims it. Year after year the Atlantic refineries and research laboratories proceed on the basis that motor construction and driving conditions are constantly changing; and motor fuel, accordingly, must be made to fit such changes. "With his more powerful and more readily controlled car of today, the motorist looks for top-notch performance in every phase of its operation. Not only does he demand unslackened power on the hills, but quickness in starting, nimbleness in traffic and motor smoothness as he breezes along the stretches.

"Atlantic Gasoline is designed to enable his car to do all these things with equal fidelity and sureness. It is distinctly an extra-powered motor fuel. It is 'knockless,' amazingly easy starting and marvelously alert on pickup. Moreover, we contend that today's Atlantic Gasoline is the cleanest-burning and the most complete in combustion that has ever come from the Atlantic or any other refineries."

Bees Leave Honey In School Walls

PETALUMA, Cal., June 20.—Trustees of the Eureka school, near here, removing 400 pounds of honey from between walls of the school building are confronted with the problem of tearing the structure down.

A swarm of bees entered the walls through holes drilled by wood peckers. School was dismissed temporarily, and a rush call was sent to the office of the county horticultural commissioner.

Use of chemicals drove the bees away and it was then discovered that several hundred pounds of honey had been left in between the walls. O. E. Bremner, county agricultural agent, estimated the harvest at 400 pounds.

State News

HARRISBURG, June 19—Reports received by the Department of Public Instruction indicate that the 1930 graduating class from the 815 Pennsylvania public four-year and senior high schools, numbering approximately 38,000, is the largest class to complete the twelve year course in the history of the State. Adding to this number the 5000 who graduated in February 1930, and the 5000 graduated from private secondary schools, makes a total of 48,000 for the school year 1929-1930.

Department officials point out that in recent years the rapid increase in school enrollment has occurred in the secondary school, comprising grades 7 to 12. A still further increase is indicated by the fact that the enrollment in grades 9 to 12 of the secondary high schools comprise only about forty per cent of the individuals reported by the census in the age group, fourteen to seventeen years. The secondary schools of Pennsylvania are rapidly being reorganized on the junior-senior high school basis incorporating the junior high school as an integral part of the State school system.

The increase in high school enrollment and the number remaining to complete the secondary school course is due to several causes, officials believe. Changes in the industrial and economic world have made it necessary for those who aspire to better positions to secure more complete preparation than has previously been demanded for entrance into schools giving advanced training or into the various vocations. With the coming of the machine age, the number of available positions has been reduced, thus making it unnecessary for the employment of those in the younger age group. Likewise, hazardous positions have been closed to those below the eighteen year old level. An increase in the number of skilled and semi-skilled positions requiring technical training, such as can be given in the commercial course and vocational shop courses in the high school, have attracted many who previously left school at an early age. Another reason is the demand made by an increasing number of boys and girls for the cultural education represented by courses offered in both the secondary school and college level, officials said.

In 1900 approximately four persons in each thousand of population were enrolled in grades 9 to 12 of the secondary schools. During the year now closing approximately forty out of each thousand of population were enrolled in these grades. The secondary school is also assuming a larger role in training for civic competency, in developing the proper attitudes, and in giving the basic training and information necessary for worthy home membership. It was pointed out. Training and homemaking for girls is recognized as a fundamental obligation by the proper schools. Parents see the value of such training and are prompted to make sacrifices that pupils may remain to complete the full secondary school course.

The attractiveness of the secondary school program is a fourth cause for an increased number remaining to complete the full twelve-year program. An effort is being made throughout the Commonwealth to adapt courses of study to meet the needs of the individual pupils. The addition of such courses as health and physical education, music, art, commercial education, homemaking and shop courses to the curriculum is in recognition of the fact that pupils vary in their abilities, capacities, and interests.

HARRISBURG, June 19—Familiarity with motor cars and excellent highways are breeding a dangerous contempt for the first principles of safety, according to Benjamin G. Eynon, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles.

"There is work for the Pool Killer on every Pennsylvania road—and particularly in the mountain regions," said Eynon. "Perhaps the misdeeds of the careless portion of the population is prompted by a desire to leave this vale of tears in abrupt fashion. For those who wish to commit suicide I offer the following suggestions:

"When passing another car wait until the white traffic-dividing line is reached, and then swing far to the left. A white line means danger, wherever found, and if the practice of straddling the line, or driving to the left of it, is continued long enough disaster will surely happen.

"Park just beyond a curve, if possible—and at night, in this position extinguish all lights. The result will be a surprise.

"Whenever possible pass other cars at the crest of a hill. Persistence in this practice will bring the funeral wagon or the ambulance.
